

The continued influx of foreign brands entering the South African market such as H&M's current arrival, means our South African consumer is becoming spoilt for choice day by day.

This means that big local retail brands have to step up, as they no longer are seen as the benchmark anymore.

Click here To download your free copy of the South Africa 2016 Consumer Report.

